Reasons for Allowance

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
- a. Claims 1, 10 and 15: while the cold heading process was generally known in the prior art as evidenced by the "Cold Heading" article, there is no express teaching of applying to anything as large as a piston shoe or to a Co-based alloy. Based on the evidence supplied in Applicant's declaration under 37 CFR 1.132, filed on 18 May 2004, there was no reasonable expectation of successfully applying cold heading to a shape as large as a piston shoe. In addition, there was no motivation to apply subsequent cold working to the opposite end portion when cold heading of a smaller workpiece, such as a screw or bolt.
 - b. Claim 19: as pointed out in Applicant's response, the closest prior art Rateick '475 teaches away from using a pre-hardened stock material at col. 2, lines 14-17. Rateick '475 teaches that it was necessary to use a material which provided cold workability, which the pre-hardened stock material lacks. Therefore, independent claim 19 is allowable over the prior art of record.
